MeshCon Fashion and Tec Week is the first conference of its kind to bring together industry representatives, fashion designers, software developers and consumers. The MeshCon 2014 will take place in Berlin from October 10-15 with the topic how to reap the benefits of participatory production in the textile industry.

The event offers a place to exchange new ideas in personalized fashion and technologies in the garment production. Participants from across the world are joining the five day event at locations around Berlin city.

The first day will start with a conference at the University of Technology TU Berlin. In the following days participants will learn new production technologies of couture from design to production of fashion and wearables at workshops at the Wikimedia Deutschland e.V. office. The event offers a space for developer meetups and features an interactive fashion show with self-made knits and tec-clothing. We invite attendees to share their knowledge in an Open Fashion Wiki.
